SHORT-TERM ALTERNATIVE TO THE PAYMENT METHOD kombiPAY30

Using the safekeeping account, we offer you the opportunity to handle test transports or transports to be executed in the short-term quickly and efficiently. If looking to use Kombiverkehr long-term for your transport operations, you are requested to use the payment method kombiPAY30, which offers you financial advantages by extending the payment term.

HOW PAYMENTS ARE HANDLED VIA THE SAFEKEEPING ACCOUNT

Before every acceptance for transport, and following agreement with the responsible transport support officer, you pay the freight charge arising for the planned transports into your safekeeping account. This freight charge is either paid per order, or a single security is deposited to cover several transports; this security is then reduced as each order is processed.

The transport approval needed for the relevant transport connection is received by return from the responsible transport support officer once the payment has been received.

If the freight charge paid in has been “used up”, you will either need to make a further security deposit (within the framework of the limited period of use, and by agreement with staff in the National or International Transport Department), or sign up to the payment method kombiPAY30.

ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES OF A SAFEKEEPING ACCOUNT

ADVANTAGE

- You can have the safekeeping account set up within a very short time-frame – for example, if you want to try out a test transport using Kombiverkehr or your transport is needed imminently and the process to join the payment method kombiPAY30 has not yet been completed.

DISADVANTAGES

- You are required to pay your freight costs in advance. You will not benefit from an extended payment term.
- You require a transport approval for each individual transport, even if you are using a transport connection which has already worked for you for a second time.
- The transport approval is only issued once the payment has been received or in case of sufficient coverage by the one possibly higher advance payment..
- Use of the safekeeping account is time-limited and is only possible for a maximum period of three months.
